

Golden Eagle Voyage Birding Weekend March 4 — March 6, 2016

During the peak of the annual Golden Eagle northern migration, spend an event filled weekend in Central Pennsylvania with the opportunity to view these majestic birds soaring overhead from atop Tussey Mountain. Enjoy the comforts and accommodations of the Nature Inn while experiencing the natural beauty of the surrounding forests and fields of Bald Eagle State Park. Stimulate and enhance your awareness of nature and restore your connection to the outdoors in this quiet haven. While Eagles may be the weekend's main attraction, there will be several other opportunities over the course of the weekend to observe local bird life.

Friday evening will begin with a group dinner followed by an Owl Prowl, including an indoor presentation and a nighttime stroll in search of nearby owls.

Saturday, Inn guests will drive the short drive to Tussey Mountain where we'll watch for a variety of hawks, and of course the main attraction, migrating Golden Eagles.

We'll continue on to Shaver's Creek Environmental Learning Center for a hearty, hot lunch provided by the Innkeeper followed by a live Birds of Prey program.

To finish the day, return to the Inn for another specially prepared group dinner followed by a more detailed look at eagle and hawk migration in PA with help from the guest speakers & authors of Birds of Central Pennsylvania.

Round out this birding weekend with a Sunday Morning Sunrise Woodcock Trot and a hearty delicious breakfast to follow!
